

Helena Ajdnik

Helena Ajdnik has been working in media business for over 18 years now. She started her career on the stage, as event host in her teenage years. In the high school, she started working as a radio speaker, opportunities in television projects for national and commercial TV stations appeared later on, where she worked as a TV presenter, screenwriter, and floor manager. She has been performing as speaker and event host for over 20 years now. In 2011, she submitted her first article to an editor and today she is a reliable journalist, and editor-in-chief for publishing projects. She knows media business very well and because of combining working experiences and interpersonal skills she has become appreciated PR worker, especially in media relations. She is self-employed since 2012 and her Bureau Kreativus offers media, communication, event management, copywriting, and PR services.