

Mr. Andreas Hrdlicka looks back on over a decade of experience in leadership roles within the technology sector. He brings a strong track record of driving sales growth and fostering innovative initiatives.

Holding a degree in technical physics and having pursued further studies in organizational development, Mr. Hrdlicka has always been passionate about merging technology with real-world applications, both in public environments and industrial solutions.

In recent years, Mr. Hrdlicka has been at the forefront of addressing the critical issues of safety communication in public domains while simultaneously working on smart and innovative solutions for evolving cities.

Currently serving as the COO of the Commend CEE Group, Mr. Hrdlicka plays a central role in expanding business operations and overseeing current activities throughout the CEE region. His responsibilities include managing foreign B2B business relationships and integrating cutting-edge technologies into the organization's portfolio.

In his previous roles, Mr. Hrdlicka made contributions by establishing new technology consulting divisions and leading technology ventures across Europe and the Middle East.